Two Fires on Brantley Road Keep Firemen Busy Saturday Afternoon; Damage Slight

Saturday afternoon was a busy time for the Elba fire department. The firemen were called to Evergreen cemetery about 1:30 o'clock where they fought and extinguished a blaze that had spread over a large area. A still breeze from the south caused the flames to threaten the cemetery. A large expanse of woods and grasslands were burned over.

About 3:30 o'clock the same afternoon, the department made a quick run to the Alton Bullard place on the Elba-Samson highway, three miles south of Elba. A large tenant house and barn were entirely destroyed when firemen arrived. The house was built occupied by Jack Suley and family but was unoccupied when it burned.

The home of William Goodson located across the highway from the Adams' property was not damaged but work of the firemen alleviated this hazard.

Goodson, Bullard and Adams expressed their appreciation for the fire department's efforts. The city policy of sending fire-fighting equipment into rural sections is appreciated by the area residents.

Elba Downs New Brocton, 53-52, Friday Evening

The Elba Tiers A and B squads made a clean sweep of New Brocton Friday night. In the preliminary the Tiers Bees won handily from Brocton, 56-37. Donaldson was top scorer for Elba with 18 and Hodge led the Gamecocks with 13 points.

The Elba Bees have lost only one game this season, their first contest to Bufala.

The main event was not decided until the closing whistle. Including Friday night's defeat, the Gamecocks have won 13 and lost three.

A feature of the game was the outstanding play of Wayne Marshall, who has been benched because of grades. He overcame this difficulty last semester and carried the difference between Elba's winning and losing.

Elba scorers were Goodson 8; Hodge 17; Marshall 17; Powell 8; Bowdoin 5; Jacobs 8 and Reeves 4.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at Liberty Church of Christ, Ministers Filard Willis of Laverne and George Herring of Elba officiating.

Pallbearers were Charles Farris, Otto Farris, Jimmy Bowdoin, and Rob English. Interment was in Damascus cemetery, Hayes Funeral Home directing.

MARCH OF DIMES
Three basketball games and a "Motivational March on Polo" will feature the local March of Dimes drive this week.

Six junior high teams will participate. They are Elba vs Enterprise, starting at 6 o'clock; Fairview vs New Hope, 7 o'clock; Basin vs Damascus, 8 o'clock.

With Mrs. Paul Hobbs in charge, the Mothers March on Polo will be staged Friday night, Jan. 30 from 7 to 8 o'clock in the evening. During this hour everyone who wishes to donate to this cause is asked to turn on his porch light. Mothers of the town will call at each door where a light is burning.

The local fire siren will sound the start of the drive.

Mrs. Dan Brooks, chairman of the special gifts portion of the drive, is asking Mrs. Hobbs with this part of the drive.

GRAND JURY

Eighteen indictments were returned out of 26 presentment by the grand jury which convened in Elba Monday night.

Twelve of the indictments were for felonies and six for misdemeanors.

Judge E. F. Paulshurff, U. S. District Court, presided over the session of the grand jury.

A number of firsts were recorded at this session of the grand jury of the 12th Judicial Circuit Court, Solicitor Lewie Stephens served for the first time in that capacity and for the first time in Coffee County history a colored man, Ben Daniels, served as a member of the grand jury.

Judge Paul had presided over a special term of court in Tre, but other than that it was the first time he sat on the bench in his new position as Circuit Judge.

The grand jury reported it found the county jail in good condition but recommended a cyclone fence or one like it be put around the jail property with a suitable gate for cars. All books and records of court officials were found in good shape.

It was recommended that the county contribute a commensurate amount of money to Sheriff H. D. Tillman to help him care and feed his kennel of bloodhounds.

NO GAME SHORTAGE

Indians Make Reservation A Paradise

NEOPT, Wis.—Anyone wondering about the ways of outdoor management can collect a lot of positive data on the Monticome Indian reservation near this small town where the Indians carefully manage their forests and hunt game when and how they please around the year to maintain an outdoor paradise.

This reservation, as was the common story, came to the Indians because no one could find a better use for it. It consists of 33,000 acres and today holds about 2,000 Indians.

The reservation follows the philosophy of harvesting rather than having trees. There is a museum forest that for years has drawn the admiration of visitors but the question is now being asked whether these 150-foot trees should be left to deteriorate or be brought under the same economic management that prevails generally over the reservation.

Wood Products
Management of the reservation is centered on wood products and the annual timber crop produces more than 85 per cent of the reservation income. But the annual cut is limited to 20 million board feet, figured on a 100-year yield basis. The probability is that the cut is conservative and that more timber is growing back usually than is taken off. The Indians process their own timber at their Neopt mill and sell their lumber on the open market. The harvest does not materially change the appearance of the red maple forest. Taking of a mature tree here and there does bring in a bit more sunlight and stimulates the growth of close and sizeable neighbors. The cutting program helps maintain a wildlife habitat.

Officials here agree that if the land and its vegetative progression can be maintained you need worry little about the wildlife on it. And nobody worries about wildlife here. There are no game laws. With year-around trapping permitted without any restrictions, beaver survived the era of high-priced pelts and there are those who wish at times there were fewer of these animals because they prove troublesome in reservation operations.

Dutch Family Hunting in Canada

HUNTINGDON, B.C.—There is a family of 20 in this Canadian farming community that proves the pioneer instinct is as strong today as when the west first was opened to colonization.

These are the members of the Griffioen family—Mr. and Mrs. and the children who pulled up stakes in their native Holland, then traveled by ship and rail across the Atlantic and the width of the North American continent to settle in the new world of promise.

They have been in America; soil since last April and have managed to make ends meet in happy fashion, thanks largely to industry, ingenuity and traditional Dutch thriftiness. They have settled in a 10-room house set in the middle of 40 fertile acres. In addition, they have rented an additional 100 acres from neighboring farms. Most of this rented land is under cultivation while their own acreage is devoted primarily to pasture for their dairy cows, cattle and pigs, which they raise for food and market.

The income for this large family must come from several sources. Two of the boys work in a factory in the nearest town. Their brothers and sisters ranging in age from a tender one to a glamorous 23, have individual duties. Not only do they pitch in and help on the Griffioen acreage, but they also hire out for harvesting.

Family devotion, rather than any other single factor, undoubtedly is responsible for the success of their new way of life. There is complete harmony and efficiency.

Re-Ernst Opening Of Cherokee Strip

PONCA CITY, Okla.—The Cyrus K. Holliday, one of the 19th century train belonging to the Santa Fe railroad, recently re-opened the run from Ponca City, Kansas to Ponca City, Oklahoma commemorating the opening of that territory for settlement. This was the 1892 Cherokee Strip celebration.

Although the original trip started near Arkansas City at noon September 16, 1892, the Holliday, carrying the celebration queen and civic and municipal leaders from Ponca City and Arkansas City, departed on schedule one day ahead of time and arrived five minutes early.

The Cyrus K. Holliday is symbolic of the 10 Santa Fe trains which carried thousands of passengers into the territory 56 years ago. After arrival in Ponca City, the civic and municipal officials, along with Santa Fe officers, attended a luncheon at the Ponca City Country Club.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Dr. Kenneth L. Foreman
Scripture: Matthew 19
Sectional Reading: 7 Verses 1-13

Poor Rich Man

Lesson for February 1, 1953

THE MAN had everything. He was young, he was in an executive position, he was in vigorous health, he was respectable, he could feel that all he had was still not quite all the thing.

Camel and Needle
The man in the famous story (Matthew 19) never did get what he wanted, so far as we know. The reason is, he did not want it enough.

The price was high, nothing less than everything he had, and his wealth was great. So he "went away sorrowful" and that is the last we hear of him. What Jesus said as he watched him go has caused a great deal of discussion, both at the time and ever since. According to Matthew, Jesus said that it is harder for a rich man to enter God's Kingdom (that is, to have eternal life, or to be saved) than for a camel to get through a needle's eye.

All sorts of efforts have been made to show that Jesus could not mean to say that the only way a camel could get through a needle's eye is by a miracle, and it is more of a miracle for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of God than for a camel to pass through a needle's eye. He did not say it was impossible; he did say it was possible only as a shock to the 20th century America as in first century Palestine.

Riches Are Risky

Actually there are many more warnings against wealth, in the Bible, than against poverty. The "have-nots" are in more spiritual peril than the "have-nots." Why this is, can be shortly stated. A minister who had had many contacts among the super-rich of one of America's 50 Coast States remarked to the writer that wealth makes the first generation hard, the second generation soft. The man of wealth may easily trust in his possessions and not in God, in short to make a god out of his own property. He may test right and wrong by what the effect is on his holdings.

Because his friends are mostly among other rich people, he is constantly tempted to habits, dissensions, recreations, customs which are not Christian. Further, the possession of wealth tends to make the owner near-sighted; like the rich young ruler who turned his back on Jesus, he can neither see clearly his own best interest nor the needs of men and women in the shadowed ways of life.

Don't Be Ruined by Riches

Now it is not true that Jesus taught that all first-class Christians must be complete paupers. It is not true that Jesus taught that no one with property can be a Christian. It is not true that Jesus laid it down as a rule for all his followers that they must give away everything they have. One of his best-loved disciples was John, who owned a home of his own. We can recall Lydia and Barnabas among the early Christians; we can all name Christians who have served God and their fellow-men with their money. When a doctor tells a patient he must get rid of his appendix, he is not saying that all healthy persons must do it; he is saying that if a healthy person must do it, he must do it. The man who is in danger, not to do it, is the man who is in danger of being ruined by riches.

Now wealth may be a danger, a source of moral infection. The man who is in danger of being ruined by riches is the man who is in danger of being ruined by riches. The man who is in danger of being ruined by riches is the man who is in danger of being ruined by riches.

To be Christian in the earning and acquiring of what we have; to be Christian in the use of it; to spend what we have as if Christ were spending it; to remember that of him to whom much is given, much shall be required; to regard what we own as so much opportunity for doing good; instead of so much insurance against hardship; this calls for the grace of God.

HALF MILLION

Gross sales at the Coffee County Farmers Livestock Co-op totaled over half a million dollars, members were told at the annual meeting Friday night, Jan. 16. Approximately 30 members were present at the meeting presided over by Eugene Grimes.

All profits above operating costs, upkeep of the barn and interest on capital investments will be returned to farmers as a patronage dividend, Mr. Grimes said.

Seven men elected to the board of directors are J. P. McWaters, Enterprise, Rt. 1; W. H. Cannon, New Brockton, Rt. 1; Eugene Grimes, Elba, Rt. 2; R. L. Farris, Elba, Rt. 3; H. A. Tamm, Jack, Rt. 1; and Ed L. Lumbert, Samson, Rt. 1.

PMA BRIEFS
Purchase orders for material to carry out 1953 soil conservation practices may be obtained through the mail or at the New Brockton PMA office if the farmer will list the place he intends to make his purchase.

Feb. 13 has been set as the deadline for material to be received for planting of non-grower peanut allotments. The support rate for grain sorghum, grading No. 2 or better in Coffee County is $2.60 per hundred weight for 1953 and bar grading No. 2 or better will be supported at $1.25 per bushel.

COUNTY HAS 152
FOREST FIRES IN PAST 12 MONTHS

During the calendar year of 1952, 125 forest fires were extinguished by the county unit of the State Division of Forestry. These fires burned an estimated 1,835 acres and averaged 15 acres in size.

Robert F. Smith, county forester, reports the number of fires in 1952 were 75 per cent more than in 1951. He feels this increase was due to the use of two-way radios and mechanized fire fighting equipment which enabled him to cover more of the county's fires.

Although the number of fires increased, average acreage burned was less than half the 3,746 acres burned in 1951. The average fire was reduced from 59 acres to 15.

SOIL CONSERVATION
NEWS

By C. L. Harp

A tree-planting demonstration will be held Thursday morning, Jan. 29 at 9 o'clock on the J. D. Morrow farm on the Brantley highway one quarter of a mile from Elba. Methods of planting pines using the cable and mechanical planter will be shown.

The demonstration will be put on by Robert Smith, county forest ranger. He will be assisted by thirty-six farmers who have made application for 732,850 pine tree seedlings. This is the largest tree-planting demonstration ever held in the county.

Most forests are started or renewed by natural seeding but many abandoned fields and openings in wood may be planted. Seedlings cost about $2.50 per thousand and one to two acres can plant them in a day. A planting machine which will plant 8-10,000 seedlings per day was purchased this month by Lister Branson. He plans to use it in the county use it on a rental basis.

If one acre of land is planted to pine trees over a 40 year period it is possible to harvest $650 worth of timber, $30 in pulp wood and still have a stand.

Coffee County has 200,000 acres of woodland. In 1952 income from this source was $55,000. The returns from wood land can be doubled or tripled by good management.

Getting Around

With Mac Brown

If you found yourself about to crash head-on, and in a spot where you couldn't run your car off the road, would you know what to do when a crash couldn't be avoided? This came up on the other night when I was talking to a Highway Patrolman during one of my coffee stops. I was telling him about the safe-driving lessons my company gives us drivers, and he was telling me about the same kind of schooling they get at the Highway Patrol Academy in Montgomery.

He said they are told to hold their car on the road until just the right moment, then throw it into a skid so the front end goes off the pavement and the back is turned broadside to take the impact. Thus, they might save their lives by preventing a head-on crash, and by having their car hit behind them if they are sitting they might keep it on the road.

These Patrol boys are tops in driving skill. They are tops in every way in my book, and among the best friends motorists have. Right up there with them, I believe, are the truck drivers. You see, when a man makes his living by driving, he has to be the best.

DEFLECTION
It was a pretty shoddy-looking shirt, but the best he could find during the wartime shortage, so Jenkins bought it. Inside he found a slip of paper bearing a girl's name and address and the message: "Please write and send me your photograph."

On a romantic impulse, Jenkins wrote to the girl and sent her his picture. In a little while an answer came. With great excitement, he opened it and read: "Thanks for the photograph. I have been making these crumby-looking shirts for a long time, and I just had to see what kind of fellow would wear one of them."

TRAINED FELINE
Every time I come over to see you that cat is sitting in exactly the same place.

Yeah, he's a hole cat.

Yeah, my brother burned a hole in the carpet and he's trained the cat to sleep over the hole.

No Exception
Sue: "I wonder if Jack loves me?"
Mabel: "Of course he does, dear. Why should he make you an exception?"

That's True
She said your hair was dyed. It's false.
That's what I told her.

MORE THAN IT'S WORTH
On New York's lower East Side, an urchin always stopped on his way to and from school to gaze in a jewelry-store window at a cheap gaudy brooch. His greatest desire was to present it to his "girl friend," and each day he'd ask the jeweler if it had been reduced. One day while his nose was pressed against the windowpane he was horrified to see the jeweler take it from the display.

Then the jeweler came out with a neatly wrapped package. "Here, kid," he said, "give this to your girl friend. And now please stop pressing your nose on the windowpane. It costs me much more than 99 cents to have my window cleaned!"

SUSPENDED PERFORMANCE
The Test
A young air-force officer was waiting his turn at the parcel-post window. When he reached the head of the line he stepped back a few feet and sent his package flying over the counter by means of a well-placed drop kick. Then he explained to the flabbergasted clerk, "I just wanted to see if the parcel could stand the type of handling it's going to receive."

The Freezer-distributor
A woman on a Milwaukee trolley was discussing washday with her companion. "I ain't gonna wash Monday until Tuesday," she said, "and then if something else has gotta be done Tuesday I ain't gonna wash this week till next week."

Take It Easy
Shall I go over your face twice? Yes, if there's any left.

HORIZONTAL. Art Spoelstra, 69-1/2 center of Western Kentucky, full length on hardwood in thriller which saw Seton Hall win eighth straight basketball game, 77-74.

DEFLECTION
It was a pretty shoddy-looking shirt, but the best he could find during the wartime shortage, so Jenkins bought it. Inside he found a slip of paper bearing a girl's name and address and the message: "Please write and send me your photograph."

On a romantic impulse, Jenkins wrote to the girl and sent her his picture. In a little while an answer came. With great excitement, he opened it and read: "Thanks for the photograph. I have been making these crumby-looking shirts for a long time, and I just had to see what kind of fellow would wear one of them."

TRAINED FELINE
Every time I come over to see you that cat is sitting in exactly the same place.

Yeah, he's a hole cat.

Yeah, my brother burned a hole in the carpet and he's trained the cat to sleep over the hole.

No Exception
Sue: "I wonder if Jack loves me?"
Mabel: "Of course he does, dear. Why should he make you an exception?"

That's True
She said your hair was dyed. It's false.
That's what I told her.

MORE THAN IT'S WORTH
On New York's lower East Side, an urchin always stopped on his way to and from school to gaze in a jewelry-store window at a cheap gaudy brooch. His greatest desire was to present it to his "girl friend," and each day he'd ask the jeweler if it had been reduced. One day while his nose was pressed against the windowpane he was horrified to see the jeweler take it from the display.

Then the jeweler came out with a neatly wrapped package. "Here, kid," he said, "give this to your girl friend. And now please stop pressing your nose on the windowpane. It costs me much more than 99 cents to have my window cleaned!"

SUSPENDED PERFORMANCE
The Test
A young air-force officer was waiting his turn at the parcel-post window. When he reached the head of the line he stepped back a few feet and sent his package flying over the counter by means of a well-placed drop kick. Then he explained to the flabbergasted clerk, "I just wanted to see if the parcel could stand the type of handling it's going to receive."

The Freezer-distributor
A woman on a Milwaukee trolley was discussing washday with her companion. "I ain't gonna wash Monday until Tuesday," she said, "and then if something else has gotta be done Tuesday I ain't gonna wash this week till next week."

Bowdon, six-foot-two (200 lbs.), Bowdon, 6'1" tall, weighing 185 pounds, starred for the Tigers and in spite of injuries that kept him out of several games, was the team's leading point maker and was voted its most valuable player. Elba fans know Hendricks for his powerhouse drives when he is carrying the ball.

GRID BANQUET HELD THURSDAY

The annual banquet honoring the Tiger football squad was given at the school cafeteria last Thursday night. Mrs. Elba Bentley supervised the decorations.

Dick McGowan, assist. coach at Auburn, explained the new football rules as they affected unlimited substitution and the two-platoon system. He favored the change, saying it would be of benefit to smaller schools and stimulate all-round development of students. It will also cut the expenses of maintaining football squads which have grown to staggering proportions.

The speaker said he was pleased to notice the unusual cooperative spirit existing between Elba coaches and players, an important factor in the success of any team. McGowan supervised and acted as announcer for the movie showing the Auburn-Georgia football game.

Sum Casey, principal gave the blessing and Fleetwood Gamble served as master of ceremonies. Coach Frank Buckner awarded letters and certificates to the players.

Miss Celia English, high school editor, carries a detailed account of the banquet in her column on page six.

Mr. & Mrs. Paul Hobbs have returned from South Florida and a trip which Mr. Hobbs described as one of the most enjoyable they ever experienced. He said he ate so much sea food, he gained ten pounds.

The lumberman said he saw hundreds of women bathers at the beaches (I suppose there were some male bathers, too) at Pompano Beach, said to be the only yachtel in the world. Rates were $14 a day just for place to sleep so they limited their stay to two nights.

Another feature of the trip was a 100-mile cruise on the inland waterway. Mr. Hobbs said there were such crowds in southern Florida that he and Mrs. Hobbs preferred to stay most of their time at outlying points.
